It affords me pleasure to assure you that atter using Dr. C. I have not had them constantly and had to try others and I have irried a good variety, but I have never had any to act so promptly, profitably, and mile, and children, with the meet them myself them to be suffered to the property of the suffered them to my own with such easy and happy effect, I would recommend them to one and to all. These pills do the work—do it promptly, do it well, and leave no lil effects behind. As a bile remover, as a liver corrector, as a forerunner preparing the system for quinine, there is no pill or medicine equal to Dr. C. McLane's Celebrated Liver Pills. I expect to use them as long as I live, if theycontinue as good as they have been in the past.

BROWN'S IRON BITTERS CURED

Surface Indications

What a miner would very properly term "surface indications" of what is beneath, are the Pimples, Sties, Sore Eyes, Bolls, and Cutanacous Eruptions with which people are annoyed in spring and early auminer. The effet matter accumulated during the winter months, now makes its presence felt, through Nature's releavors to expel it from the system. While it remains, it is a poison that festers in the blood and may develop into Scrofula. This condition causes derangement of the dipestive and assimilatory organs, with a feeling of enervation, languor, and weariness—often lightly spoken of as 'only spring fever." These are evidences that Nature is not able, unaided, to throw of the corrupt atoms which weaken the vital forces. To rigain health, Nature must be sided by a thornous blood-purifying medicine; and nothing else is so effective as

Ayer's Sarsaparilla,

which is sufficiently powerful to expel from the system even the taint of Hereditary Serofuln.
The medical profession indorse Ayra's Sarsaranti.i.a. and many attestations of the curse effected by Iteome from all parts of the world. It is, in the lunguage of the Hon. Francis Gwett, ex-State Sensior of Massachusetts and ex-Mayor of Lowell, "the only preparation that does real, lasting good."

THE INDUSTRIAL DEPRESSION. Its Causes and the Bemedies-A Careful

From the First Assaul Report of the U. S. Lober Decembers.

As to the severity of the present industrial depression and its duration, it can safely be asserted that the depression commenced early in 1882 and has continued until the present time. From the time the agents of the Bureau entered the field in prosecuting their investigations to the time they left it, a period of five or six months, there had been a marked change in the condition of business. At the present time (March, 1886), the effects of the depression are wearing away, and all the indications are that prosperity is slowly, gratually, but safely returning. The extent of the depression has not been a gogast as the popular mind has conceived it. An industrial depression is a mental and moral malady which seizes the public mind after the first influences of the depression in a mental and moral malady which seizes the public mind after the first influences of the depression is a mental and moral malady which seizes the public mind after the first influences of the depression is a mental and moral malady which seizes the public mind after the first influences of the depression is a mind the creaming the contracts of labor send that the work men will not be obliged to mutual welfare. It can ask that the clark of the contracts of labor send the result is that the depression is agrayavated in all its features. The severity of the present depression, while real and tangible, should be considered as in part moral in its indicates of the contracts of the contracts of labor on the moral moral was and the derivated to the first moral in the contract of labor and the result is that the depression is a mental and moral malady which seizes the public mind after the first influences of the depression the marrial to the contract of the contract be considered as in part moral in its influences. The nations particularly involved, in their relation to each other, and as to severity stand in the following order: Great Britain, the United States, Germany, France, Belgium. It is worthy of remark that in those countries where machinery has not been largely adopted the depression in its peculiar features, as shown between 1882 and 1886, has not been felt to any material extent. In conshown between 1882 and 1880, has not been felt to any material extent. In con-nection with the order of nations just given it is interesting to note the order of the same countries with reference to other points. In the rate of wages and earnings the rank is as follows: The United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany; in regard to the introduction of machin-ery, Great Britain, the United States, Bel-gium, France, Germany; in regard to the ery, Great Britain, the United States, Belgium, France, Germany; in regard to the cost of production, the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany; in regard to the cost of living, the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Germany; in regard to the standard of living and the condition of work people, the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Germany; with reference to popular education, the United States, Belgium, Germany, Great Britain, France; efficiency of labor, the United States, Great Britain, Belgium, France, Germany If Italy had been added in these gradings it would have been named last in every instance, and Spain would have preceded Italy in nearly, every case, but Austria and Spain have not been included in the investigation, and Italy only to a certain extent.

CAUSES. The causes of the present depression, so far as the United States is concerned and as they have been alleged, are varied indeed. The most potent and those most susceptible of illustration have been given. A chain of causes, or rather a combination of coacting causes, has probably worked to unquies the present in. ably worked to produce the present in-dustrial depression in this country. These dustrial depression in this country. These causes might work a legitimate track. Good crops in England and other countries of Western Europe has caused considerable decrease in the exports of American breadsuffs. This has been aggravated by increased supplies of wheat from India by the Suez Canal, and to some extent by short crops here. The prohibition fully or in part of American meats by some countries has resulted in an injury of the or in part of American meats by some countries has resulted in an injury of the export trade in food products. These inflhences tend in some degree to cripple the consuming power of the larger part of the population of the United States. The inflhence of the loss of exports in these ways to the United States has been aggravated through the cessation of railroad building, whereby a large suproductive force has been thrown upon the resources of the country, and the consuming power of such force and the consuming power of such force has been necessarily reduced. Kapid imhas been necessarily reduced. Hapid immigration has aggravated influences by a surplus of labor, which, with the presence of too great a supply of machinery, has rendered over-production easy. The decrease in Europe of the consumption of American cotton, in connection with the corresponding decrease in the United States, has helped to cripple the consumpts ower in the receiping signs to cot.

states, has helped to crippie the con-suming power in the regions given to cot-ton-raising and thrown on the labor mar-ket a considerable number of laborers in those regions, this crippling coming at the same time of the increased importations and large numbers of immigrants, the other influences affecting the East. Thus these wide-reaching and widely-separhese wide-reaching and widely-separ ating causes, in their initial influence have combined to make the industrial de pression of the past few years a reality These influences have received contribu ons from the various minor causes de scribed, and so the ball has rolled until the period of readjustment set in, and now, as that period of readjustment is passing away, prosperity dawns on the country. The tiescons to be learned from these causes are what have been denomi-

REMEDIES. . Probably no human device or combination of devices can be instituted powerful enough to prevent the recurrence of financial and commercial crises and industrial depressions, but this should not prevent men seeking devices which will mitigate the severity or shorten the duration of such calamities. When it is considered that each great manufacturing nation of the world is struggling for industrial exlatence as against the flerce competition of every other nation engaged in like pursuits, some of the questions which seem to absorb the minds of individual employers and employes seem trivial indeed; yet it must not be assumed, nor can it be assumed with reason, that the workmen of the United States or their employers wish to cripple in any degree the implements of industry. Therefore it is well to consider. the United States of their employers wish to cripple in any degree the implements of industry. Therefore it is well to consider those remedial sgencies which have been suggested. Which of these agencies can be reduced to practice in any degree?

LEGISLATIVE AID. There is no universal panaces, no absolute remedy for depressions; but if the public, through sentiment or through its agents in the legislatures of the country, can stimulate any methods for the mitigation of the severity and the shortening of the duration of the industrial depression, certainly the effort should be made. And certainly the effort should be made. And first, what can be done by legislation? With a healthy public opinion behind it, the law-making power can prevent to a great degree the unboly speculation in food products. It can indulge in a conservative care in extending railroad building and in facilitating the organization of manufacturing corporations. It can reing and in facilitating the organization of ing and in facilitating the organization of cure, manufacturing corporations. It can restrict the grants of the public domain. It can enact uniform bankruptcy laws, exitor constitution, Loss of Appetite, Dissipation of the provisions of such laws so that the poor man indebted but a few hundred collars shall be able to readjust his finantial laws as readily as the larger debtor, sale agents, Wheeling, W. Va. the poor man indebted but a few hundred dollars shall be able to readjust his dinancial affairs as readily as the larger debtor. It can abridge the provisions of laws relating to the collection of debts, to the end that the credit system shall not be abused. It can regulate transportation on just and uniform basis, to end that the stockholder shall not be robbed by ruinous competition, and that the workman may calculate with some degree of certainty the arnings by the pernicious method of in earnings by the pernicious method of im-portation by contract; that every lawful endeavor be made to stimulate industrial education in all parts of the country; that the necessity shall be recognized of the industrial development of all parts of the land that there may result a legitimate in-crease in the consuming power of the peo-ple. It can stimulate the growth of the principle of industrial copartnership through methods of profit-sharing by wise, permissive laws.

As stages are quickly abandoned with the completion of railroads, so the huge drastic, cathartic pills, composed of crude and hulky medicines are quickly aban-doned with the introduction of Dr Pierce's "Pleasant Purgative Pellets," which are sugar-coated, and little larger than mustard seeds, but composed of highly concen-trated (vegetable extracts.
